

ASSESSING THE
GEORGE W. BUSH PRESIDENCY

ASSESSING THE GEORGE W. BUSH PRESIDENCY

A Tale of Two Terms

Edited by Andrew Wroe and Jon Herbert

Edinburgh University Press

To Amanda, Albert and Alice – AW
To Camille Herbert – JH

© in this edition Edinburgh University Press, 2009
© in the individual contributions is retained by the authors

Edinburgh University Press Ltd
22 George Square, Edinburgh
www.euppublishing.com

Typeset in Palatino Light by Norman Tilley Graphics Ltd, Northampton, and printed and bound in Great Britain by
???? ?????? ????? ???????

A CIP record for this book is available from the British Library

ISBN 978 0 7486 2740 0 (hardback)
ISBN 978 0 7486 2741 7 (paperback)

The right of the contributors to be identified as authors of this work has been asserted in accordance with the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988.

CONTENTS

---

---

Notes on the Contributors	vi
1 Introduction: A Tale of Two Terms Andrew Wroe and Jon Herbert	1
Part I: Institutions and Structures
2 George W. Bush and the US Congress Robert Singh	13
3 George W. Bush as Chief Executive James P. Pfiffner	29
4 George W. Bush and the US Supreme Court Emma Long	44
5 Federalism in the Bush Era M. J. C. Vile	59
Part II: Foreign Policy Leadership
6 To Usher in a New Paradigm? President Bush's Foreign Policy Legacy Jason Ralph	77
7 Reforming the National Security Apparatus Steven Hurst	100
8 Bush and Europe David Patrick Houghton	115
9 International Trade Policy Under George W. Bush Nitsan Chorev	129

Part III: Domestic Policy Leadership
10	President Bush and the Economy Graham Wilson	149
11	The Politics of Aging Alex Waddan	166
12	No Child Left Behind: The Politics and Policy of Education Reform Jonathan Parker	182
13	The Bush Administration and the Politics of Sexual Morality Edward Ashbee	199
14	Communications Strategies in the Bush White House John Anthony Maltese	216
15	A Lasting Republican Majority? George W. Bush's Electoral Strategy Kevin Fullam and Alan R. Gitelson	239
16	Conclusion: The Legacy of George W. Bush Jon Herbert and Andrew Wroe	258
	Index	277

NOTES ON THE CONTRIBUTORS

---

---

Edward Ashbee is an associate professor at Copenhagen Business School's International Center for Business and Politics. He is author of The Bush Administration, Sex and the Moral Agenda (Manchester University Press, 2007) and co-editor of The Politics, Economics, and Culture of Mexican-US Migration: Both Sides of the Border (Palgrave Macmillan, 2008).

Nitsan Chorev is assistant professor of sociology at Brown University. She is author of Remaking U.S. Trade Policy: from Protectionism to Globalization (Cornell University Press, 2007), which explores the transformation of US trade policies from the 1930s to the present.

Kevin Fullam is an adjunct lecturer at Loyola University. His teaching interests involve the depiction of American government in film and television. Fullam also covers the intersection of politics, sociology and popular culture as the host of Under Surveillance on Chicago's WLWU-FM.

Alan Gitelson is professor of political science at Loyola University, Chicago. His books include American Political Parties: Stability and Change (Houghton Mifflin), American Government (Wadsworth/Cengage Publishers, 2009), Public Policy and Economic Institutions (JAI Press) and American Elections: The Rules Matter (Longman Pearson Publishers, 2002).

Jon Herbert is a lecturer in American politics at Keele University. His primary research interest is the United States presidency. His research focuses on the relationship between presidential policymaking, presidential agendas and political strategy.

David Patrick Houghton is an associate professor of political science and has taught at the University of Central Florida since 2003. He has also held positions at the Ohio State University, Essex University and the University of Pittsburgh. His most recent book is Political Psychology: Situations, Individuals and Cases (Routledge, 2009).

Steven Hurst is a senior lecturer in the Department of Politics and Philosophy, Manchester Metropolitan University. He is the author of Cold War US Foreign Policy (2005) and The United States and Iraq since 1979 (2009), both published by Edinburgh University Press.

Emma Long teaches American history at the University of Kent. Her research interests include US constitutional and legal history, the history of the Supreme Court, post-World War II US history and, in particular, the legal, political, and social history of church–state relations. She is currently completing a manuscript on the Court and the establishment clause.

John Anthony Maltese is the Albert Berry Saye Professor and chair of the Political Science Department at the University of Georgia. His books include Spin Control: The White House Office of Communications and the Management of Presidential News, The Selling of Supreme Court Nominees, and (with Joseph Pika) The Politics of the Presidency.

Jonathan Parker is a senior lecturer in American politics in the School of Politics, International Relations and Philosophy at Keele University. He specialises in public policy, particularly education. He has published on American education at the state and local level and on higher education policy.

James P. Pfiffner is University Professor in the School of Public Policy at George Mason University. He has written or edited twelve books on the presidency and American national government, including Power Play: The Bush Administration and the Constitution (Brookings, 2008). His book, Torture as Public Policy, will be published by Paradigm Publishers in 2009.

Jason Ralph is a senior lecturer in international relations at the University of Leeds. He is author of Defending the Society of States: Why

Notes on the Contributors

ix

America Opposes the International Criminal Court and its Vision of World Society (Oxford University Press, 2007). His current research project "Law, War and the State of the American Exception" is funded by the Economic and Social Research Council.

Robert Singh is a professor of politics at Birkbeck College, University of London. His research interests are in US politics and foreign policy and he is the co-author, with Tim Lynch, of After Bush: The Case for Continuity in US Foreign Policy (Cambridge University Press, 2008).

M. J. C. Vile is an emeritus professor of political science in the University of Kent. His interests lie in the areas of federalism, constitutional theory and American politics. The sixth edition of his Politics in the USA was published by Routledge in 2007.

Alex Waddan is a senior lecturer in politics and American studies at the University of Leicester. He teaches US politics and US foreign policy and has published widely on the politics of US social policy. He is currently working on a project examining how ideas have influenced US social policy over the last decade.

Graham Wilson is a professor of political science at Boston University. He was previously a professor at the University of Wisconsin–Madison and began his career at the University of Essex. He is the author of many books and articles on American and British politics. His Handbook Of Business And Government, co-edited with David Coen and Wyn Grant, will be published by Oxford University Press in 2010.

Andrew Wroe is a lecturer in United States politics at the University of Kent. His most recent book is The Republican Party and Immigration Politics: From Proposition 187 to George W. Bush (Palgrave Macmillan, 2008).

