To honour the Memory of JOHN DAVEY, of Boswednack in this Parish (b. St. Just, 1812; d. Boswednack, 1891), who was the last to possess any considerable Traditional Knowledge of the Cornish Language, & that of his Father & Instructor, JOHN DAVEY, of St. Just (b. Boswednack, 1770; d. St. Just, 1844), well known as a Mathematician & Schoolmaster, both of whom lie buried near; this Stone was set up by the St. Ives Old Cornwall Society, 1930.
Start of the Revival

“Why should Cornishmen learn Cornish?

There is no money in it, it serves no practical purpose and the literature is scanty and of no great originality or value.

The question is a fair one, the answer is simple.

Because they are Cornish.”

(Henry Jenner 1904 Handbook of the Cornish Language)
Unified Cornish

- 1929 Cornish for All (Morton Nance)
- 1934 English Cornish Dictionary
- 1938 Cornish - English Dictionary
- The 1952 English-Cornish Dictionary
- The 1955 Cornish-English Dictionary
Criticism of Unified Cornish

“Our Institute takes the view that the so called Unified Spelling invented by Nance has never been explained, i.e. we have never had any real discussion of the principles on which it was based. We regard the dictionaries with their high proportion of words invented by the comparative method as suspect, because they don't give dated forms, and we feel that some of the lost words can probably be recovered from dated Middle Cornish place-names and may prove to be other than the forms invented for them by Nance. Lastly, following the work of the Leeds Survey of English Dialects, we suspect that the pronunciation currently used for modern Cornish (based on an ultimate form of Wessex Middle English) may be wrong and that the true phonetic range is still just recoverable from an area west of an isogloss that cuts off the Land's End and part of the south side of the Lizard.”

Charles Thomas, Institute of Cornish Studies (1972)

2000 SGRÙD Research "An Independent Academic Study on Cornish"

• “A reasonable estimate of the number of speakers able to use the language effectively for everyday purposes is around 300”

• Cornish spoken in a wide variety of situations:
  – the conducts of business in Cornish organisations;
  – in cultural events;
  – in a wide variety of social activities when speakers congregate;
  – “There may be, perhaps, 10 families using the language in the home”
2001 - Doris Ansari

• Portfolio Holder for Education 2001-
• Teaching of Cornish culture “dangerous and would put Cornwall on the road to the Balkans”
2002: Candy Atherton MP for Falmouth

- Would not support moves to make the Cornish language part of the school curriculum
- “It is a sad fact that some ethnic minorities suffer discrimination. I strongly believe that diversity of culture should be celebrated and that education is a key to acceptance” (Western Morning News 23 Aug. 2002).
Article 3. [Comment 16] The Advisory Committee notes that the Government does not consider the people of Cornwall to constitute a national minority. The Advisory Committee however notes that a number of persons living in Cornwall consider themselves to be a national minority within the scope of the Framework Convention. In this, the Advisory Committee has received substantial information from them as to their Celtic identity, specific history, distinct language, and culture.

The Standard Written Form

"The Standard Written Form (SWF) for Cornish represents a common ground for users of all existing orthographies and for speakers of all varieties of Revived Cornish. ... to provide public bodies and the educational system with a universally acceptable, inclusive, and neutral orthography. ....In order to accommodate the range of variation in the modern spoken language, the SWF is much more inclusive of variant forms than any previous Cornish orthography. Care has been taken to construct a system which speakers of all varieties of Revived Cornish can learn to use quickly and easily, in a manner which suits their linguistic and aesthetic preferences. Even users who have not had formal instruction in the SWF should find it relatively easy to read" (Bock, Albert & Benjamin Bruch (2008) "An Outline of the Standard Written Form of Cornish" p.1).

- “... traditional graphs do not have equal status with their counterparts <k>, <hw>, and <-i>, and will not appear in elementary language textbooks or in official documents produced by public bodies” (Bock & Bruch 2008: 4).
Problems with the Standard Written Form

• Lacks consensus
• Does not treat all sections of the community fairly
• Does not unambiguously encode all current orthoepies.
Kernwek Standard

• Created in response to the SWF
• Aims to correct the errors in the SWF
• Uses traditional graphs
• Makes use of diacritics to unambiguously and simultaneously convey all current orthoepies.
2013 CLP Cornish Language Survey

• 799 people completed the survey.

• The internet
  – seems to play a significant role in maintaining language use.
  – has also overtaken correspondence courses as a learning method.

• Inter-family transmission was strongly cited as a learning method,
  – but such transmission does not currently indicate any great fluency.
