Listed as follows:

Scotland	General papers on Scottish health centres Counties Burghs

Within each county, county borough, etc. any general papers will be listed first, alphabetically by author, followed by papers on individual health centres listed in order of their dates of opening. If there is more than one paper on any health centre, the papers on that centre are listed alphabetically by author. These are mainly straightforward descriptions of health centres, their staff and services, often with photos and plans.

In the case of the following sections of the original bibliography, no publications in 1973 were found for inclusion.

A. INTRODUCTION

1. Since the publication of the original bibliography there has been a considerable amount of new material published about health centres. We have therefore decided that it would be useful to provide a supplement to the original bibliography, listing the material published in 1973. The methods of classification and cross-referencing remain the same with one exception. Section M, Dental, Pharmaceutical and Ophthalmic Services in Health Centres, has now been expanded and divided into 3 sub-sections as follows.

- M (i) Dental, Pharmaceutical and Ophthalmic Services in Health Centres
- M (ii) Nursing (and support) Services in Health Centres
- M (iii) Other Local Authority Services in Health Centres

The main heading of Section M is now Services (Other than Medical) Found in Health Centres.

At the end of the supplement we have listed a number of other papers published before 1973 which we failed to include in the original bibliography. The list is in chronological order, and, where there is more than one reference for a single year, in alphabetical order according to the surname of the first author. Each reference is followed by the letter of the section in which it should have been included in the original bibliography.

We print below for ease of reference, the introduction of the original bibliography which refers to the scope of the bibliography and conventions used in its layout.

2. Introduction to original bibliography

(i) The Scope of the Bibliography

This bibliography lists printed material concerned with health centres in the United Kingdom and published before 1 January 1973. The references are almost entirely limited to those published in the United Kingdom, they do not include material from newspapers and similar sources.

In compiling the bibliography the selected lists on health centres produced by the Department of Health and Social Security Library at Alexander Fleming House, London, as well as their monthly lists of references, entitled 'Current Literature on Community Health and Personal Social Services' (formerly Current Literature on Local Authority Health and Welfare Services), have been invaluable. Other sources consulted were the Directory of British Health Centres (King's Fund, 1971, listed at 1,7) and the Index Medicus. Despite these and other searches, we realise that there may be omissions in the bibliography. We should be grateful if anyone who considers that a relevant paper has been left out would write to Miss G.E. Baker, Health Services Research Unit, University of Kent, Canterbury, so that any such paper may be included when the bibliography is up-dated.

The term 'Health Centres' is taken to include the following

(i) Statutory health centres, i.e. centres built under the provision of the relevant statutes in the United Kingdom (See section B for details of these); and (ii) certain health centres neither built under statutory provision nor owned by general practitioners but built and owned by charitable or educational bodies.

These are (a) Harlow Health Centres, Essex (Nuffield Provincial Hospitals Trust), Corby Diagnostic Centre, Northants (Nuffield Provincial Hospitals Trust), Darbshire House Health Centre, Manchester (University of Manchester), The Nuffield Centre, Witney, Oxford (Nuffield Provincial Hospitals Trust) in England; and the Ballymoney Health Centre, Co.Antrim (Regional Hospital Board Trust Fund) in Northern Ireland.

By confining this list to material specifically relating to health centres, we have, of course, had to exclude many papers describing comparable material, for instance the design of and experience in group practice premises.

(ii) Using the Bibliography

(a) Conventions used

Most of the references in the bibliography are from journals and the Harvard system (name of author, year of publication, title of journal underlined, volume number underlined and pages) has been followed in citing these. However, in several journals this information would not be sufficient to find the reference and so in these cases details such as the month of publication or the number of the copy in the year, have been added as necessary.

The prefix 'G.B.' (for Great Britain) has been used to distinguish all official material, i.e. published by H.M.S.O. or produced by government departments, in the United Kingdom. This convention makes such material easier to identify in an alphabetical arrangement as the names of organisations and ministries are liable to change (e.g. the former Ministry of Health is now the Department of Health and Social Security).

(b) The cross-referencing system

The bibliography has been divided into sections. In a number of instances, one reference could be logically placed in more than one section. This is particularly the case in Section P, Studies Carried Out in Health Centres, as most studies relate to a named centre or centres and, therefore, could also have been listed under the names of the centre concerned in Section R, Descriptions of Individual Health Centres. Instead of listing such references in two or more places, a system of cross referencing is used. For example, paper P1 describes a study carried out at Kilsyth Health Centre. In Brackets underneath this reference is shown the place where P1 could also have been listed - in this case in Section R, Stirlingshire, Kilsyth. And at the relevant place in Section R (i.e. Stirlingshire, Kilsyth) reference P1 is shown as one which also applies there.

The final section, T, is a chronological list of all references listed in the preceding sections. Annual Reports which are listed once only for all relevant years in the subject sections, have been indicated in Section T under each appropriate year.

(iii) Acknowledgements

Many people have helped in the preparation of this bibliography. In particular, we are most grateful to Professor M.D. Warren, Director of the Health Services Research Unit, for his helpful advice and criticisms, and to our other colleagues of the Unit, especially Dr. K.S. Dawes for bringing to our notice much relevant material. We should also like to thank Lavinia Harvey, who prepared the manuscript for printing; Dr. G. Sichel of the Department of Health and Social Security for encouragement and advice on official documents; Mr. D. Collier of the Scottish Home and Health Department, and Mrs M.J. Campbell of the Ministry of Health and Social Services, Northern Ireland, for supplying official material from their departments; Mrs M.V. Rodgers, Librarian of the Kent Postgraduate Medical Centre at Canterbury; and Mrs M. Joyce for her patience in typing a long manuscript particularly demanding in its detailed format.

3. Acknowledgements (additional to those mentioned above for the original bibliography).

We are most grateful to Dr. R.W. Brotherwood of the Department of Health and Social Security for providing information on official documents and to Mrs Jillian Steadman and Mrs Shirley Woodward who typed this supplement.
